The campus. The location Munich.

Munich is the capital of the Free State of Bavaria. With a population of around 1.5 million, it is the most populous city in Bavaria. More than 2.7 million people live in the Munich metropolitan area. In the 2014 city rankings of the consulting firm Mercer, Munich ranked second among 50 major cities worldwide in terms of infrastructure and fourth in terms of quality of life. Within Germany, Munich is considered the most livable city.

Munich is home to numerous national and international authorities as well as important universities and colleges, including Ludwigs-Maximilian University (LMU) and the Technical University (TUM), to name just two. Both have received special funding since 2007 as informally so-called elite universities under the Excellence Initiative.

Other educational institutions include the Munich University of Applied Sciences (an amalgamation of seven engineering schools and higher technical colleges), the Academy of Politics, the Academy of Fine Arts, the Academy of Music and Theater, the Bavarian Theater Academy, the Academy of Film and Television, and numerous private and church sponsors. In total, almost 120,000 people study in Munich.
